for DECEMBER 1961

volume 38

number 12

Published Monthly by
the INDIANA HISTORICAL BUREAU Indianapolis

COVER: Winter picket duty. Campaigning in the "Sunny South" could be an extremely cold affair on occasion, especially in the mountainous areas of the upper South. This sketch was reproduced from Harper's Pictorial History of the Great Rebellion which was published in 1868.

In the October issue of the Bulletin the county derivation of the 6th through the 80th Indiana Civil War regiments was listed. In this issue the compilation is completed for regiments numbered 81 through 156.

The research was done by staff members of the Indiana Civil War Commission and largely based on the Report of W. H. H. Terrell, Adjutant General, State of Indiana. In some instances Terrell does not indicate the geographical origins of personnel in certain companies; in these cases an asterisk was placed by the company's letter designation and the derivation established by sampling Civil War personnel records in the custody of the Archives Division, Indiana State Library

MEMBERSHIP OF STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETIES

On December 1, 1959, the Indiana Historical Society had 2,054 members; December 1, 1960, 2,488; and on December 1, 1961, 2,857. This growth of nearly 40% in two years has prompted some inquiries regarding the size of other "state societies." Our source of information about our contemporaries is the Directory of Historical Societies and Agencies in the United States and Canada, 1961, compiled by Clement M. Silvestro and Sally Ann Davis for the American Association for State and Local History. In most instances the membership statistics cited in this Directory are valid for the fall of 1960. For example, Indiana is credited with 2,467, which was correct on October 14, 1960.

Membership size provides only a rough measurement of a society's prosperity and effectiveness. Besides the obvious fact that some societies deliberately restrict membership (as you may have guessed, this does not apply to the I. H. S.), other factors must be considered: The cost of the basic annual membership, financial support by legislative appropriation, the state's population, the nature of the society's program, etc. Aspiring to be bigger just for the sake of bigness may be a dubious policy. The Executive Committee of the Indiana Historical Society have been and are as keenly interested in membership quality as membership quantity. The great value of increased membership is that it provides additional resources, human and financial, for a better program.

Society	basic annual dues	member- ship	population, 1960 in millions
St. Hist. Soc. of Missouri	$ 1.00	13,000	4.32
New York St. Hist. Assoc.	5.00	11,685	16.78
Hist. Soc. of Montana	4.00	9,818	.67
St. Hist. Soc. of Iowa	3.00	6,050	2.76
St. Hist. Soc. of Wisconsin	5.00	4,600	3.95
Missouri Hist. Soc. (St. Louis)	10.00	4,063	4.32
Illinois St. Hist. Soc.	3.00	3,400	10.08
Maryland Hist. Soc.	4.00	3,200	3.10
Minnesota Hist. Soc.	4.00	3,100	2.41
California Hist. Soc.	15.00	3,000	15.72
Oklahoma Hist. Soc.	3.00	2,700	2.33
Nebraska St. Hist. Soc.	2.00	2,668	1.41
Vermont Hist. Soc.	-----	2,615	.39
Kansas St. Hist. Soc.	3.00	2,500	2.18
Indiana Hist. Soc.	5.00	2,476	4.66

According to the figures in the 1961 Directory the state societies of the remaining thirty-five states had smaller memberships than the Indiana Historical Society.
